

FOI Publication Scheme

The College's Freedom of Information publication scheme follows the standard format required by the Information Commissioner from January 2009.

It sets out the information that the College publishes or intends to publish and we have tried to make available as much of information as possible on this website. Printed versions of documents and web pages produced by Keble College are available, for which a fee may be charged.

The purpose of the scheme is to give a clear indication of which College publications are routinely accessible, so that the public can be informed as far as reasonably possible of the purpose and nature of College activities, and to assist in developing a greater culture of openness in general. The College endeavours to be as transparent as possible about its activities, while at the same time recognising that there are exemptions within the Act.

Who we are and what we do

The role of a College within Oxford University

Keble College at present has 440 undergraduate students and 410 graduate students. There are 50 Fellows who are members of its Governing Body, 6 research fellows and career development fellows, and college lecturers who assist in the teaching of our students.

College Governance

Statutes

List of Academic Staff

We admit undergraduate students in 20 broad subject areas, and across most graduate study fields.

Application information can be found here.

Keble follows the University's Admissions Policies and Codes of Practice.

Information is provided to new undergraduates and graduate students before their arrival: a link to the College Freshers' website is available on request.

Admissions Statistics for Undergraduates can be found on the University website: University-wide data

Report on admissions to Keble is available in hard-copy as part of Academic Annual Report

Teaching

The teaching role of the College is described in the Keble College Handbook.

Keble complies with the University's Quality Assurance Guidelines on undergraduate and graduate teaching and learning, and related matters.

The College has provided a Statement of Undergraduate and Graduate Teaching and Learning Provision to the University Conference of Colleges and this is available on request.

Research

A description of the research activities of groups and individual academics in the College is provided here.

Student Services

The full list of welfare and other support services available to students is described in the Welfare section on our website and in the Student Handbook.

Chapel

Alumni and Development

Conferences and Accommodation

What we spend and how we spend it