Accommodation at Keble

We guarantee accommodation on site at Keble for three years of your course and it’s of a very high standard. All of our rooms are single and of a decent size—the vast majority are ensuite, and are well-placed to take advantage of all of the academic and social benefits of living in college. All of our undergraduate accommodation is located on our main site on Parks Road*. If you are visiting us on an Open Day, make sure you have a look at the example rooms we have available to view.

You have to live here at Keble in your first year but you can choose to live out and rent privately in any or all of the later years of your course if you prefer, although this tends to be more expensive (and so is not very common). Rooms for first year undergraduates are allocated by the Accommodation Manager, though incoming students may express a preference for type of room. Second year and third year students choose their room by a ballot system operated by the Accommodation Office.

We work hard to accommodate all students’ first choice preferences for living at Keble where possible, although cannot guarantee this.

*Due to high student intakes over the last few years, some third year students may be housed at the H B Allen Centre site.

 Expected rents for Undergraduate students starting in 2024. Rents for following years are determined by increasing the current rents by a formula of ‘CPI +2.5%’. Using the formula, the actual rent for the following academic year will be determined in January of the preceding academic year. The rents therefore shown for 2nd and 3rd years are indicative. The rents set by the formula for following years will be subject to a downward only review mechanism that could result in a rent refund for students if actual inflation for the year in question turns out to be lower than what had been set using the formula. If actual College inflation exceeds that set by the formula there will not be an additional charge to students. The review will take place in January of the academic year in question and will compare actual College inflation for that year to the amount determined by the ‘CPI+2.5%’ formula the previous January.
Food and drink at Keble

One of the perks of studying at Oxford is that you don't have to worry about cooking your own meals. This is particularly helpful when you're extra busy with studying, clubs and societies, etc.

Keble students can have breakfast, lunch and dinner in the dining hall every day if they want to. We also have a café and a pizza bar onsite in case they fancy something a bit different. We aim to cater for all dietary requirements.

Everything you choose to eat and drink is added to your online account using your university card and you have to pay for what you've had at the end of each term. You can pay more frequently if you prefer. There are no upfront termly or yearly fixed charges for meals at Keble—meaning you only pay for what you actually have. Keble also puts on three optional formal evening meals per week. Students who come often say that it's a good chance to catch up with friends or meet new people, but they also enjoy the opportunity to wear academic gowns and have their food served to them.

You can bring visitors along to eat at Keble and what they have will be charged to your online account using your university card. If you'd like to take someone to a formal evening meal you just have to book a place for them online in advance.

Students are free to go and eat in town or elsewhere within the university—but this can be more expensive. Most first year rooms also have fridges and students are allowed microwaves and kettles as well so that's always a back-up option but there aren't usually proper cooking facilities until third year.
