

KEBLE COLLEGE
Stipendiary Part-time Lecturership in Computer Science

Keble College invites applications for Stipendiary Lecturership in Computer Science for academic year 2024-2025. This is a part-time fixed-term appointment. The successful candidate will be expected to provide six weighted hours of tutorial teaching per week (averaged over the three terms) for undergraduates in Computer Science.

In addition, the person appointed will be required to set and mark college examinations on courses they have taught, submit progress reports on undergraduates they have taught at the end of each term, participate in undergraduate admissions, assist with the pastoral care of undergraduates reading Computer Science and liaise with other tutors to ensure the smooth running of the subject in College.

The appointment will be made on the Stipendiary Lecturers' annual salary scale for this number of hours of teaching, from £15,244 to £16,983(2023-24 rates, subject to annual uplift) depending on experience. There is also an academic allowance of £383. The successful candidate will be entitled to 6 free meals (lunch or dinner) per week when the College kitchens are open, and the use of a computer and a shared teaching room. To comply with employment legislation the successful candidate will be required to provide documentary evidence of their eligibility for employment before starting work with the College. Further details are available here.

Letters of application should include a statement of the candidate's research interests and teaching experience, as well as an academic curriculum vitae and the names of two referees. Letters of application and references should reach the Student Administration Manager, Mrs Penny Bateman, at college.office@keble.ox.ac.uk, by 12 noon 25th March 2024. Candidates should also ask their referees to write to the Senior Tutor, c/o Mrs Bateman at the same address and by the closing date.

Applications are particularly welcome from women and black and minority ethnic candidates who are under-represented in academic posts in Oxford.
